RATIFICATION EXPECTED IN A FORTNIGHT

Agreement To Vote On Peace Pact October 14 or 15 Being Drafted

NO DELAY LIKELY

Democrats Decide Not To Make Party Issue of Question Nor to Obstruct Action.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Ratification by the Senate in a fortnight of the Administration's peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary loomed as a prospect tonight after Republican and Democratic leaders had discussed a proposed unanimous consent agreement drafted by Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, to take the final votes October 14 or 15. Both expressed hopes of obtaining a formal order of the Senate tomorrow providing for such a program and all factions expressed the opinion that the agreement would be reachd.

Announcement of the negotiations was made in the Senate late today by Senator Lodge, and with the discussions showing evidences of success the Republicans dropped their plan for a night session last night. Senator Lodge intimated, however, that should the agreement be blocked he would return to the night session drive for ratification Mr. Lodge said he had "every reasonable hope" of reaching an agreement and Senator Underwood, the Democratic leader, also said an agreement had been "practically reached" and was ready for consummation tomorrow.

Involved in the program is a proposal that should any Senator desire to debate the treaties, the Tax Revision bill would be laid aside temporarily. It is expected, however, that the tax measure actually will be before the Senate most of next week, with the following week largely devoted to the treaties.

The movement for a voting agreement developed today in a conference of Democratic Senators, who declared unanimously against the Republican plan for night sessions and authorized overtures by Senator Underwood to the Republicans for a voting agreement. The Democrats reaffirmed their stand against making ratification a party question and left each Senator free to vote as he shall determine.

In the effort to agree upon a date for voting on ratification, Chairman Penrose, of the Finance Committee, who has in charge the Tax bill, agreed to give way to the treaties, stating he believed it would operate actually to expedite his measure.

The only address in the Senate on the treaties today was by Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, who opposed ratification because he said he believed they would drag United States into the League of Nations and European entanglements. Ever since President Harding's inauguration, Senator Watson, declared, the nation has been "drifting irresistibly" into the League.

READING IMPORTANT IN PRIMARY GRADES

That reading is the most important subject in the primary grades was the unanimous decision of the teachers of the second grades, who met yesterday in the Washington street school building; first, because reading is indespensable in modern life, and second because in the ability to read depends the future progress in school work.

Reading is largely a matter of practice and habit and the teaching of reading in the Alexandria schools is hampered because of the lack of sufficient supplementary reading material to afford necessary practice.

There are approximately nine hundred children in the first three grades in the white schools. It is felt that six hundred readers, that is, fifty for each room, would materially improve the quality of reading in the primary grades.

The meeting was presided over by Miss Mary D. Pierce, supervisor of schools, and the teachers present were, Miss Fannie Dunn and Mrs. Sofia Wolfe of Washington street school, Misses Leslie Cox, Ruth Deahl and Sofia Brooking, of Lee School, and Miss Hilda Noonan of West End School.

Regret was expressed at the absence of Mrs. Brown, of Lee School, who has been suffering from a sprained ankle and was unable to attend the meeting.

With this suggestion of Col. Anderson's the Democrats of Virginia are in hearty accord, but the proposition to increase State aid to our old soldiers is hardly in keeping Colonel Anderson's insistent demand for decreased appropriations.

HITS WIFE IN EYE

Given Fine of $25—Man Has Too Much Lip—Is Fined $20—Jailed To Sober Up

"I do odd jobs just now," said a colored man when arraigned before Mayor Duncan today to answer a charge of beating his wife. "Is that one of your jobs, hitting your wife over the eye," asked the court. The prisoners entered a plea of guilty, adding, "I throw myself on the mercy of the court." The wife whom he attacked expressed a desire not to prosecute him. The court, however, was obdurate and fined the prisoner $25 with the alternative of spending sixty days in jail. He was arrested by Police Sergeant Campbell and Policeman Carlton Padgett.

"This man said he didn't care for the police," and in addition gave a considerable "head" to the police last night in front of Odd Fellows' Hall, South Columbus street, said Policeman Sisson who with Policeman Miller arrested the prisoner, a colored man. The charge of being drunk also was urged against the accused. The two combined offenses resulted in a fine of $20 or thirty days.

A white man who had tarried too long with the wine, who was escorted to police headquarters by Policeman Rawlett and Lawrence Padgett, was given ten days at the Hotel Cox in order to get the hooch out of his system. Thus ended the day in police court.

Bible Thought for Today

THINK OF THE HARVEST:—Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.—Galatians 6:7.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

Washington, Sept. 30.—The last chapter in the famous Ford-Newberry election contest has just about been written with the submission of minority and majority reports of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections. It is certain that the Republican majority will seat Mr. Newberry and deny the claims of Henry Ford. Newberry will hold office until March 3, 1925, but it is extremely doubtful if he can ever be elected again and the prospects are that he will refuse to make the race in Michigan again.

The Republican majority of the investigating committee found that entirely too much money was spent in the famous primary of 1918 in Michigan and estimated the expenses of nominating Newberry over Ford at something like $195,000. When it is considered that Newberry will draw something like $45,000 for his six years of service in the Senate, it is obvious at once that Senate seats are extremely valuable things and are not appraised because of cash considerations.

The present national corrupt practices act, under which Newberry was convicted and which was held invalid by the Supreme Court, prohibits the spending of more than $10,000 by any candidate but has the woeful weakness of putting on the government the burden of proving that the candidate had knowledge of the spending of the money. There is no doubt but that in many other states of the Union thousands and thousands of dollars have been spent in particular cases to elect men to the Senate and House and the law, such as it is, has been violated dozens and dozens of times. Agitations have been started from time to time to put real teeth in the present law or to repeal it entirely in favor of a new law, but the agitations have never got far because of the apparent unwillingness of the Republican majority to put on the statute books an enforceable statute which would prohibit graft in elections.

The most recent agitation was during the preconvention campaign of 1920 when followers of Senator Johnson of California, deprecating the immense sums that were spent for General Leonard Wood, indicated they would insist on Congress passing a stringent law limiting campaign expenses. But after the heat of the battle has passed, no one seems particularly anxious to have a real law enacted now and the matter probably will rest until some future glaring violation of the laws of decency shock the public and force Congress to act.

Pomp to Mark Burial

For colorful pomp and ceremony and for sheer interest in the famous men that will participate, the ceremonies to be held here Nov. 11 at the burial of the body of an unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery are expected to be unrivalled in the history of the United States and to approach closely some of the famous ceremonies of the old world.

The very finest of the existing organizations of the army and navy; the cream of the nation's air fleet; hundreds of the finest specimens of the great American Expeditionary Force now returned to private life; premiers and leading statesmen of Europe and Asia; the President of the United States; members of Congress and other high officials are expected to participate.

Nothing is to be spared to make the parade and the ceremonies attendant on the burial of this soldier even more impressive and symbolical than the funeral even of a President of the United States. Expense is not to be reckoned for the ceremonies, but simplicity and not elaborate and extravagant display is to be the keynote.

It will be a parade the like of which will not again be seen during the life of the present generation. It is hoped the burial of the unknown soldier will symbolize the burial of the old barbarity of wars and that the distinguished foreigners here for the arms conference will go direct from this funeral to the work of making future wars impossible.

The body to be buried will be that of a soldier from Virginia, or a soldier from California, or one from Maine. It will be the body of one of the men after whose name appeared the terrible words "Missing in Action," which were not later changed to "Captured in Action," or "Killed in Action" It will be one of the bodies which simply disappeared.

But in the burial, the bodies of all the thousands of men who died in the war, whether by disease, accident or in action, will be, after a fashion buried symbolically in the one grave.

EXPECT IRISH WILL ACCEPT INVITATION

Dail Eireen Cabinet Discusses Lloyd George's Bid To Conference

ULSTER IS BARRIER

London Considers British Premier's Note As Frank Diplomatic Statement.

Dublin, Sept. 30.—Premier Lloyd George's communication is being considered by the Dail Eireann Cabinet at the Mansion House yesterday evening It is believed the invitation will be accepted, and it is generally hoped delegates from the Dail will attend the conference.

The consensus is that Eamonn de Valera should accept the invitation if his case is not to be wholly prejudiced. But inside Sinn Fein opinion points out that the Irish leader must carry a united Cabinet, and to do this plain acceptance of the conference invitation, with all its implications is scarcely likely. As the Crown Government makes England's position clear, so the Dail Caibnet is expected to make the Irish.

Therefore, it is argued, De Valera's reply, while accepting, is not likely to ignore the implications in the Premier's note. He probably will restate his position with regard to the Irish unity in the imperial association. It is suggested last night, however, that tactical considerations may reserve this claim of unity for the conference itself.

In any case, the inside view of the situation gives no solid foundation for optimism. The feeling is strong that the negotiations, even in the conference, must inevitably break down on the Ulster question.

Lloyd George's communication was received over the Dublin Castle private wire shortly after noon and immediately forwarded. De Valera and Arthur Griffith were present when it was received and their Cabinet colleagues were summoned into council. After this consultation De Valera left the Mansion House, having called a full meeting of the Cabinet for today to consider his draft of the reply. It is reported that it is quite possible the reply will not be issued today.

As was anticipated, the Lloyd George note wraps up condition of allegiance to the British Empire in words which make no apparent insistence on this as a precedent to the conference. It is no secret here that the original draft strongly insisted upon this condition in very plain terms, but upon representation from Ireland, inspired by soundings of Sinn Fein leaders, the Premier modified it.

TRADITIONAL NEW YEAR TO BE COMMEMORATED

Temple Beth-El, 206 North Washington street, makes this announcement:

This coming Sunday, October 2nd, 1921, at sunset, marks the completion of the year 5681, according to Biblical chronology, and the beginning of the denominational New Year's Day for the adherents of Judaism throughout the world.

It inaugurates the most solemn season of the year for the members of the Jewish faith in every corner of the globe and the commencement of a period of ten days, called the "The Days of Penitence" concluded by the Day of Atonement, which falls this year on Wednesday, October 12th.

Throughout the history of Israel as a monotheistic people, New Year's Day and the Day of Atonement have been regarded as the most sacred days in the year. Tradition through the ages colored the significance of the season with its characteristic marks. Today, however, the different customs and traditions associated with this time of the year have been crystalized in the idea of its being a season especially dedeicated to retrispection, meditation and worship.

In Alexandria, both the local orthodox and reform congregations have arranged special New Year services; the former, according to an old traditional custom, observing also a second day. The orthodox service is entirely in Hebrew. The service consists of a number of selections from the Psalms, interspersed by extracts from the Pentateuch and the Prophets. These are augmented by contributions by ritual authors of post-biblical times.

Raymond Blumenfeld, the secretary of Temple Beth-El, of this city, announces that Rabbi Julius H. Halprin, of Newark, will conduct the services at the temple this year.

The service Sunday, October 2nd, New Year's Eve, will begin at 6:30 p. m. The service Monday morning will begin at 10 o'clock. Sunday evening Rabbi Halprin will take as his subject. "Individuality as a Factor in Civilization." Monday morning his subject will be, "The Message of the Dawn." All are welcome

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

The Gazette published in its Washington Letter of yesterday, a note from President Harding to our fellow-citizen, Charles S. Stoler, on the getting out of a large vote this year in the Virginia elections. We are of the opinion that the President will be more than satisfied with the Democratic vote in the Old Dominion next November. Enough is as good as a feast, but the Republicans this year will be gorged to repletion with the size of the Democratic majority.

Concerning President Harding's veiled innuendo as to a total vote of 900,000 in Virginia we have only to refer him to Senator Trinkle's masterly key-note speech at Clintwood, on Tuesday of this week. With all due respect to the President, we feel that he would acquire an insight into Virginias civic and political conditions that would go far towards his enlightenment. But if he has not the time at present, what with his treaties and Senator Borah, and his conferences, and his other weighty duties, we especially adjure him to read Trinkle's superb exposition on Suffrage as it pertains to this state. The Senator gives utterance to the true innate doctrine of every Southern man and woman; a doctrine that has come down through the ages and which all the windy ways of man cannot shift or change. It is a tenet of belief so inbred in the Aryan peoples that it tinges the red corpuscles of every arterial tide and pulses in every heart-beat of their Anglo-Saxon descendants. In the South only, is the negro fully understood. In the South only, is he sure of that intelligent because sympathetic treatment that comes from a thorough comprehension of his nature, his inheritance, and his environment.

In our instalment of the Trinkle speech tomorrow we shall include the paragraphs allotted to suffrage. We unhesitatingly pronounce this to be one of the clearest and most succinct statements of the race question in its relation to suffrage that has thus far been made. Since President Harding is apparently interesting himself in Virginia politics, we trust he will do himself the justice to clearly understand the situation. Otherwise he is liable to be led into error by the partisan bias of those seeking state office.

The Story of the City Manager Plan

During the last ten years one hundred and forty American cities and town have changed their municipal charters and adopted the City Manager form of government, and there are now two hundred and fifty four cities and towns operating under that plan.

This plan has aroused wide attention and the results are already so striking that City Managers are being seriously advocated, in such cities as Chicago, Cleveland and Kansas City.

The development of City Managership is a profession now well under way. Thirty seven times, men who did well as managers of small cities, have been called to larger cities at increased salaries. Of these managers, several have gained promotion, three are now in the fourth city.

When a new manager is created, or an old one vacated, the successful managers of smaller cities are usually the candidates who will receive first consideration. Over one-half of the cities have chosen their manager from out of town.

In 1908, the mayor and council of Staunton, Virginia, became disgusted over the inefficiency of government by councilmanic committees, and hired C. E. Ashburner, and passed an ordinance delegating to him the title of "General Manager." He made good and became famous both for his title and record. Since then, Staunton has changed over from the makeshift order of government to the real City Manager Plan.

In 1910, Lockport, New York, was looking for a chance to get a form of Commission government, a movement then sweeping over the country. The Lockport Board of Trade accordingly had to prepare legislation and proceeded to improve on the commission plan by combining its single elective board feature with the Staunton idea of the appointive manager. The Lockport plan was talked about all over the country.

In 1912, Sumter, South Carolina adopted a new charter embodying the Lockport idea, and began operating under the new system early in the following year .This was the first city therefore, to have the City Manager system. Two neighboring towns, Hickory and Morganton, North Carolina, immediately followed.

Dayton, Ohio, had been through a long seige of wasteful inefficient administration. When the charter commission had thoroughly investigated all the prevailing and proposed types of city government, they concluded that Sumter had the best on the market. Then came the big Dayton flood of 1913, and the incapacity of the old government was emphasized and. When things became normal again the people adopted the new manager charter by a big majority.

Springfield, Ohio took action a few weeks later, the councils of both Springfield and Dayton taking office in January, 1914.

Eleven other towns and small cities in Texas and Michigan, also installed the plan that year. Since then an increasing number of cities have adopted it every year, 1920 list of accretions being by far the largest. The pressure on the legislatures became so wide-spread that twelve states, Massachusetts, New York, Virginia, Ohio, Oklahoma, Kansas, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, North Carolina, Wisconsin and Louisiana, passed state wide laws permitting their cities by a simple referendum procedure to adopt the City Manager Plan.

One of the favorite political arguments to defeat city manager charters, is to stir up municipal employees by the assertion that they will lose protection and become subject to the whim of a new manager, who will discharge them all including the uniformed fire and police force. In no manager city has anything of this sort ever transpired. On the contrary it happens that the record of the manager cities in dealing with labor and civil service is particularly good. Promotions have been by merit, and as to most of the cities politics has disappeared from the administrative personnel. These results are natural enough in a government free from red tape when headed by an executive who can work almost as freely as a private business executive. Just as it is in the enlightened progressive business houses, which treat their employees fairly and get in return, high grade service. The manager cities are the ones which have adjusted their budgets most promptly, in order to treat their workers right.

The reason why the manager plan is because it is more democratic; i. e., more sensitive and obedient to public opinion.

Two unusual basic features explain this superiority in true democracy namely: (1) "The short ballot principle." (2) "Unification of powers." The short ballot principle is the doctrine that only few officers should ever be scheduled to be filed at any one time, so as to permit adequate and unconfused popular examination of the candidates. In other democratic countries the plan of government usually calls on the people to fill one single office on a given date, e. g. Members of Parliament, or member of a council from a ward. We really hold not one election, but ten, twenty and even fifty elections in a single election day. Our complex American ballots frequently deserve to be labelled: "For politicians only, not for the people." The slogan of the short ballot movement runs: "The long ballot is the politicians' ballot; the short ballot is the people's ballot." The manager charters respect this short ballot principle. It would be a violation of principle if the council were made so large that the typical voter was called upon to vote for more than five officers simultaneously. When the burden of making more than five selections at any one time is forced upon the voter, the voter ceases to make an individual choice for every office, and begins to fall back upon ready-made tickets prepared for him. Obviously when the ballot thus requires more choice than the voter cares to remember, power gravitates away from the voters into the hands of the politician, who thus acquires opportunities which are open to great abuse. But when politics is made clear, simple and understandable by a very short ballot, the voter can protect himself, and usually he will.

In most of the cities which have thus far adopted the plan the number of council is five.

The other basic merit of the manager plan means the reposing of all power in a single place, the council. It is gives to the whole mechanism the single controlling composite mind, which is essential to the success of any plan of City Government.

The mayor-and-council plan, for example, lacks unification, and is subjected to dead locks, since the mayor and the council are prevented from getting together and composing their differences by so simple and expedient a plan as the taking of a joint vote. It will be a violation of the principles of the city manager plan, to give to a separate mayor, the power to veto the acts of the council. It would then be a two headed city instead of a one headed city.

It is easier for the people to con-

ol a unified government than a complicated one. For example the council the manager plan has power to ise the taxes, and hence has the ower to yield to a public demand r better service; but at the same me, it has power to reduce service, nd yield to a public demand for lowr taxes. It cannot say in the firs ase, "We have not the money." Nor the second case. "We cannot make e administration economical." It ust always accept the complete reonsibility, as there is no one else whom blame can be attached.

The advantages of having a city anager are obvious to any business an. For counsel, many minds are eeded; for execution, a single directg head is required. Universal busiss practice demonstrates this, as es also, the superior success which e have had with a typical public hool system where a school board es all its work through a hired supintendent.

It is essential to the plan that the ty manager shall be appointive. ven the freak feature of one cityanager charter, which subjects the anager to direct recall by the peoe is damaging to the principle inlved, since it diverts responsibility om the council. He must be cometely the servant of the council, else cannot fairly be forced to take reponsibility for his acts. He must in way be independent of it.

Making it possible to hire the city anager from out of town, not only s been helpful in getting trained rvice, but is highly important to the owing profession of city manageent. If a city manager could not ok forward to similar positions elsere in case he is displaced or outown his town, a powerful incentive ward the development of personal iciency would be lost. The fact that e city manager is not necessarily inlved in local politics, or in disputes matters of general policy, permits mparative permanence in the office the chief administrator of the city most important thing to the delopment of a smoothly running meanism.

For the first time the people have tten their own corporation into such ape that it can hold its own with ivate corporations in competition r competent executive talent, proding these attractive conditions: nure for a long as the man "makes od," chance for advancement and ofessional reputation and a chance achieve things by familiar straight rward unincumbered business meths.

A generation ago reformers exersed their wits to devise complicaons of governmental machinery in vain endeavor to prevent bad govnment. Thereby they made governt so complex and roundabout that one but professional politicians uld operate it, and the rank and e of the citizenship were left alst helpless spectators.

Today the winning principle is to mplify and clarify the processes of vernment so that everybody can d will understand and take part effctively without special attention or fort. Politics under the manager n becomes so primitively bare and mple that there is nothing for a litician to be a specialist in. The sy ordinary nonpolitical citizen who unts for so little in the old polls, finds himself exercising his full are of control in the new plan. The w government connects direct with masses who are usually ready to plaud and reward those who serve m well, and, who at any rate are best base to build upon.

The first-thought objection to the nager plan is that it is undemocrato make its most important single cial appointive instead of "directresponsible to the people by elecn." Democracy, however, consists in ntrolling public officers, not necesrily in electing them, and that way most democratic which gives the ople the surest control. The most ective way for the people to get a m grip on the neck of the governntal organization is by sending a presentative group of citizens down city hall to see what the executive doing, with power to fire him and another any day of the week if is unsatisfactory or insubordinate mpared with that method, direct ction and recall are crude, clumsy fficient and relatively undemoatic.

Furthermore, a capacity in governnt for vigorous effective execution policies is essential to true democy. A policy desired by the people l obediently voted for their repentatives may yet be defeated by y-fish inefficiency in execution. Adinistration by a trained manager is erefore more democratic.

This new government is not a cure- It is capable of going in the ng direction like any other human anization. A city charter is like an tomobile, nothing mechanical can devised that will keep the owner m driving it up the wrong fork of road. The makers must strive to ke the car infallibly obedient to tering-wheel and completely under driver's control. The city-manr automobile is of all kinds the that is least able to defy public ntiment or escape popular control. is the best make and the easiest for general public to drive without help of politician chauffeurs.

Many Human Ills Are Due To Impurities in the Blood

Pure, Rich, Red Blood Nourishes the Body and Fights Off Disease.

Waste Products or Impurities Cause Many Forms of Rheumatism, Skin Disorders and a Lowered Vitality.

How S. S. S. Clears the Blood of Waste Products.

Your system is continually taking in nutrition and throwing off waste products. This process goes on all during life. But, sometimes the organs do not properly function and these waste products, instead of passing out through the pores of the skin, through the kidneys and through the alimentary canal, are absorbed in the blood. Then the blood becomes poisoned, and cannot properly nourish the system.

Ill health sets in. You may lose your strength and vitality; or you may have rheumatic pains in the muscles and joints; or you may be troubled with bad boils, sores or some other skin eruptions. All because of the poisonous waste products in the blood. Nature now needs help. She has done her best but is failing. A blood purifier should be used at once to assist nature to throw off these waste products.

S. S. S., the standard blood purifier and system builder, is the ideal remedy in these cases. The effect of S. S. S. is to rid the system of the poisons which are causing the trouble. For over 50 years, S. S. S. has proven to be of unusual merit.

Get S. S. S. at your druggist. Use it strictly according to directions and write Chief Medical Director, Swift Specific Co., 721 S. S. S. Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga., and let him help you regain your health and strength. He is helping people every day. Ask him to send you his illustrated booklet, "Facts About the Blood"—free. S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores.

CENTERS OF POPULATION

(For the Gazette)

For thirty years the center of population in the United States has remained within the borders of the state of Indiana.

The census of 1920 gives Spencer as the town nearest the center of population. The exact point is 8.3 miles southeast of Spencer, in the extreme southeast corner of Owen County.

According to the 1910 census the center of population was in the city of Bloomington.

Following are the locations of population centers for the various censuses, with the distance of westward movement in each decade:

1790—23 miles east of Baltimore.

1800—18 miles west of Baltimore; 40.6 miles.

1810—40 miles northwest of Washington; 36.9 miles.

1820—16 miles north of Woodstock, Va.; 50.5 miles.

1830—19 miles southwest of Moorefield, W. Va. (then a part of Virginia) 40.4 miles.

1840—16 miles west of Clarksburg, W. Va. (then Virginia); 55.6 miles.

1850—23 miles southeast of Parksburg, W. Va. (then Virginia); 54.8 miles.

1860—20 miles south of Chillicothe, Ohio; 80.6 miles

1870—48 miles east of Cincinnati; 44.1 miles.

1880—8 miles west of Cincinnati; 58.1 miles.

1890—20 miles east of Columbus, Ind.; 48.6 miles.

1900—6 miles southeast of Columbus, Ohio; Ind.; 14.6 miles.

1910—In the city of Bloomington, Ind.; 39 miles.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Highlingman and Miss Dorothy Highlinger, of Sedalia, Missouri, who have been visiting Midshipman Thomas Highlingman, at the U. S. Naval Academy, have the past few days been visiting the historic spots in this vicinity.

IDLE HOUR THEATRE

Heralded as one of the most picturesque and compelling screen versions of any James Oliver Curwood story yet filmed, "The Golden Snare," produced under the direction of David Hartfold for release by Associated First National, comes to the Idle Hour Theatre tomorrow.

Lewis S. Stone, who has distinguished himself in other Curwood pictures, notably "The River's End," and "Nomads of the North," is the featured player in "The Golden Snare," in which he is again seen in his familiar and popular role of a member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. Ruth Renick has the leading feminine part, and others in the cast are Wallace Beery, Melbourne MacDowell, Wellington Playter, Francis MacDonald and Baby Esther Scott.

"The Golden Snare," is an absorbing story of mystery, adventure and romance of the north. It deals with the lone search of Sergeant Philip Raine of the R. N. W. M. P. for Bram Johnson, the madman of the Arctic barrens. Raine finds Johnson, and also Celie, a beautiful elf of that wilderness, the mystery of whose presence there is not cleared up until Bram, his reason returned, sacrifices his own life to save her from a horrible fate at the hands of a white outcast and his band of Esquimaux followers.

As in the "Nomads of the North," Director David Hartford is said to have again made skilful use of animals in the picturization of "The Golden Snare." This time it is a pack of wolf-dogs, and malemutes which are featured. Running in packs with mad Bram Johnson these fierce but intelligent brutes are ready to attack either man or beast at the command of their master. Some remarkable photography and striking effects are said to have been obtained in the snow country with the aid of these "huskies."

Leopard Cannot Change Spots

Tone" Man, Tells the Treachery of Calomel.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynimite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel billious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tone which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.
